BROOKLYN 2-8, PHILADELPHIA 1-6. First Game a Pitchers' Battle-Second Notable for Hits.

Brooklyn, July 1.-The Brooklyn and Philadelphia teams played a doubleheader at Washington Park to-day and Brooklyn won both games, the first by the close score of 2 to 1, and the second by 8 to 6. The first game was a pitchers battle, with honors about even. The second was a fine hitting exhibition, in which the home players knecked iberg out of the box in the sixth innning when every man on the Brooklyn side went to the bat. The six hits made in this inning, two of which were doubles, scored five runs. Attendance 4,000.

The Cubs started the first game by scoring one run in the first on three safeties and the crowd thought it was all off with Wicker. But after this brief flash in the pan there was nothing doing for the home talent. Wicker settled down and allowed only three more hits in the following eight innings. These were widely scattered and resulted in no damage. The visitors touched young Landgren for a total of ten hits. Attendance at the conflicting games Monday was not much indication of the comparative drawing powers of the Browns and Cardinals when both have good attractions to offer in Saturday and Sunday games. The total attendance at both games was smaller even than the Monday crowds the Cardinals drew has year. The Browns outdrew the Cardinals Monday, but even official estimates are sometimes liberal and the exact ratio can hardly be figured. Hetween 25% and 2.8% went to Sportsman's Park, many being attracted by the presence of Napoleon Lajcie. With the O'Neill lattery as an attraction, the Cardinals and Chicago drew a little more than a thousand persons. Between loyalty to the Cardinals and amiration for the Browns, St. Louis fans are about evenly divided and if one park outdraws the other to any great extent in the conflicting games of the future it will be because the visiting attraction is greater at one than the other.

Several members of the two teams have Several members of the two teams have been bemeaning the fact that they could not witness the Corbett-Sullivan fight. The Browns depart early Thursday night for Detroit, and the Cardinals lay over in Chicago until Thursday night in order to play off some postponed games. Thus neither team will be in the city Thursday night, but as the chances for the fight taking place in St. Louis are not bright the players will not be the only ones to be disappointed.

The Cardinals and Cubs are down for but one game to-day, but to-morrow will play another double-header, weather permitting. The twirling is up to Mike O'Nelli or Eddie Murphy. Whey Dunham was left at home this trip and excused from further duty until he is in shape to pitch winning bail. Dunham will be a free lance until he rounds to form again. To say the least, it is a little queer that Dunham has not been in winning form since he became a Donovanite. The big fellow didn't want to leave the Columbus Club, but he had no alternative. He pitched good bail for Columbus, but the moment he struck St. Louis his arm began going to the bad. Perhaps he sees a chance to return to the Senators, and he probably will get it soon if he docsn't improve. There are several tricks in baseball that have not been worked on Manager Donovan. The Cardinals and Cubs are down for but been worked on Manager Donovan.

Ralph Gibson, the young Richmond, Mo., plicher, who was recommended to Manager Donovan last spring, is making good with a vengeance with the Kamas City American Association team. The other day he pitched a fifteen-linning game against the Louis-ville leaders. Critics on the circuit speak highly of him, and believe he will go to the top. Gibson could have been secured at a reasonable figure for the Cardinals last spring, but the management was slow in communicating with him, and he sent his regrets, saying that he would have been glad to make terms with St. Louis, had he not tied himself up with the Blues just a day or two previous.

Prank Bonner, who was much wanted by the Cleveland and Chicago National clubs last spring, has dropped out of sight. Bonner started with Cleveland and was transferred to the Philadelphia Athletics when Lajole joined the Bluebirds. Recently Bonner was suspended, and it is said that he will be dropped. Frank Hough says of him in the Philadelphia Inquirer:

"Second Baseman Frank Bonner is practically through with the Athletics. It is not likely that Manager Mack will have any further use for his services. When he was signed it was with the distinct understanding that be was to get himself in condition to play the ball of which he is really capable. He has not lived up to that agreement. Manager Mack, in playing Castor at second, believing that it is better to have a player on the team who is always willing and rendy to put up the bear game he has in the shop in preference to one who, though he may be a better player, is never in condition to do himself Justice."

Hendricks, the young outfielder, who started like a Kansas cyclone with New York three weeks ago, is a nephew of former Vice President Hendricks. Unlike his diotinguished "nunky," however, Hendricks has but little show of holding on for four years. In fact, he appears occasionally to do some minth-liming batting stunts, and by this time may have drawn his blue envelope. A slump in batting was the cause of Hendricks's failure to hold down a steady job.

The Detroit club will not lose the services

The Detroit club will not lose the services of Flicher Win Mercer until the close of the present season. Manager Morley of the Los Angeles club is so set on securing Mercer that he has agreed to hold his offer open until the close of the season.

Unless there is another turn of the wheel this means that Mercer will play with Detroit right up to the finish of the season, unless the fortune of the race is such that it is apparent a week or two weeks before the finish that Detroit cannot better its position. In that case Dwyer will probably let Mercer make his start for the Coast before the team winds up its work. If Detroit is fighting for a position Mercer will ray to the last game. Even in the latter event he will be with Los Angeles for more that two months, the Coast baseball season running into December.

The management, therefore, amounces two games for this afternoon, the first to start at 2.
